WE ARE DIPLOMATIC

The DIPLOMATISCHES MAGAZIN has been accompanying the diplomatic community in Germany for over 65 years. From the Waterkant to the edge of the Alps, we are the leading and only premium magazine for diplomacy, international relations, science, business & lifestyle, published bimonthly in German and English. Current information and selected articles can be found online.

More than 160 diplomatic missions are among our readers, who report regularly to their home countries. For this purpose, in each issue we highlight a current topic and conduct interviews with representatives of international organizations, with decision-makers in the EU and also with federal ministries. First-class articles by renowned authors illuminate the topic from different, even controversial perspectives. In this way, we make a significant contribution to bringing Germany as a host country closer to foreign diplomats in all its facets. In addition, we offer our international readers a high level of added value with regularly published specials, including country portraits, trade show highlights, educational supplements, etc. Honorary consulates and consulates general also have a significant influence on our reporting, to whom we offer a platform for their presentation.

WE ARE IN THE MIDDLE OF IT

We look behind the closed doors of diplomacy exclusively for you, meet top international decision-makers from politics, culture, business and science on a regular basis and dance in the middle of the diplomatic scene in Berlin. The whole world is at home in the pulsating capital: 160 embassies from abroad are based here. Hundreds of international organisations, leading companies and cultural institutions invigorate the political heart of Germany. Nationwide, more than 600 consulates general and honorary represent the interests of the citizens of the respective host country. And we are right in the middle of it, eyes, ears and voice of the global players – since 1959!

WE ARE TWIPLOMATIC

We know our readers well and that they want our exclusive and readable information and news, not only on a bimonthly basis, but also regularly online. Therefore – whether at the desktop on a computer or on the screen of a mobile device: Diplomatisches Magazin is also available online at any time.

LET'S BE PARTNERS

We see ourselves as multilateralists. We maintain direct contact with embassy employees, globally active business representatives and members of the Bundestag, as well as, employees from ministries and state governments at self-organised events and at events, such as, diplomatic receptions throughout Germany. We listen, we ask – because they are also our readers, they create new trends and make important decisions with far-reaching consequences.

OUR ATTRACTIVE READERSHIP

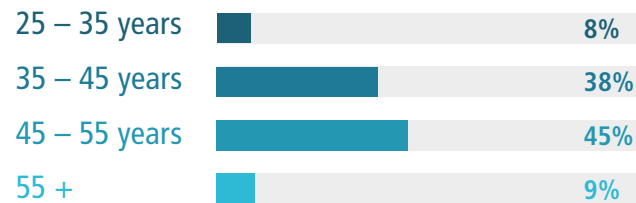

Our readers travel the world, are very busy, on the move a lot, mostly polyglot, politically interested and well informed. They have an unprecedented network of contacts, an above-average level of education and a correspondingly high household income. Due to their busy everyday work, our readers often seek moments of relaxation and exquisite enjoyment. In addition to ambassadors at home and abroad and their entourages (e.g. business and trade attachés), our readership includes members of the Bundestag, federal and state ministers, general and honorary consuls, managing directors, board members, directors of global & diplomatic affairs, senior advisors, lobbyists, as well as, leading figures from science and culture.

With Diplomatisches Magazin you can reach them all!

Advertorials

Advertorials and publishing supplements enable you to present your content in the look & feel of Diplomatisches Magazin. This way, you can also explain more extensive product information to the readers of Diplomatisches Magazin. This increases the credibility of the information.

Through the integration into the editorial content of Diplomatisches Magazin, you will engage the readers' attention. For advertorials and supplements, as well as other forms of communication, you will receive an individual offer tailored to your needs.

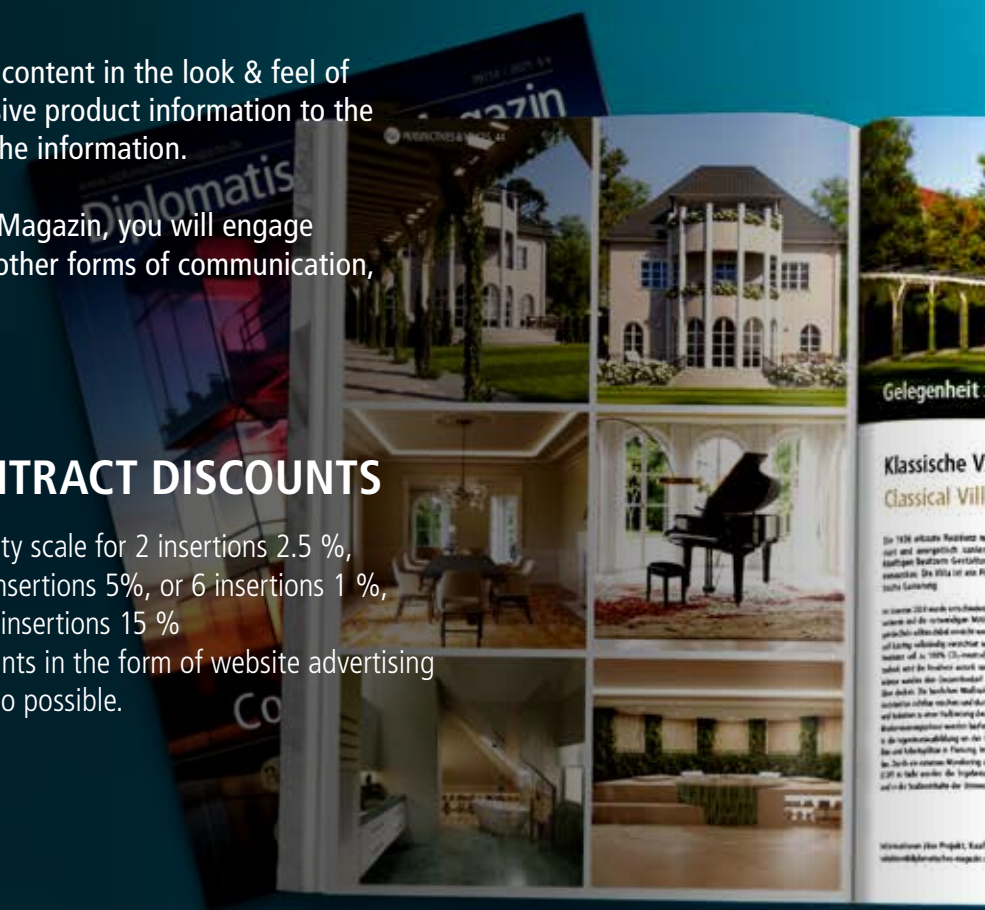

AGENCY FEE

If orders for advertising are placed by agencies or advertising intermediaries, they will receive an agency fee of max. 15 %, provided they can advise their clients on advertising and provide evidence of corresponding services. Further claims (e.g. quantity discounts) are excluded. If quantity discounts are granted to advertisers, the agency commission refers to the discounted gross switching price before VAT.

CONTRACT DISCOUNTS

Quantity scale for 2 insertions 2.5 %,
for 4 insertions 5%, or 6 insertions 1 %,
for 10 insertions 15 %

Discounts in the form of website advertising are also possible.

Special Publications

For advertorials, specials and supplements, as well as, other forms of communication, we will provide you with an individual offer tailored to your needs.

Country Special

In 8 to 24-page country specials we compile in close consultation with you, monolingual or bilingual editorial articles and interviews about the economy, culture, tourism and important projects from your country. The special can be integrated up to 10 pages directly into an edition of Diplomatisches Magazin, over 10 pages a removable supplement is attached to the individual copies.

Consul Special

In addition to ambassadors, we also offer general and honorary consuls in Germany a platform for building networks. In editorially designed interviews and portraits, we present the areas of work of individual consuls. The special is integrated in the magazine.

Education Special

For many years, the education supplement of Diplomatisches Magazin has offered an exclusive overview of educational institutions with high-quality educational offers. In the education special, boarding schools and universities from Germany present themselves, their projects, teaching forms and courses of studies in advertisements and advertorials. The institutions are listed with a brief profile in a general overview.

Interested embassies, ministries, companies and agencies from the areas of trade, insurance, automobiles, banks & logistics and health & wellness are also welcome to book special publications.
